Web-based video games have potential to teach medical, nursing and allied health students about clinical practice through the active participation of the learner. However, the learning experiences of these students have not been well explored. The aim of this study was to explore the effects of low-cost web-based video game-based learning (WBBVL) on medical, nursing and allied health students' learning and attitudes toward clinical practice. An experimental study in which 76 first- and second-year medical, nursing and allied health students participated. In addition to the usual laboratory or clinical teaching, the WBBVL group participated in five activities, which enabled them to experience clinical situations through playing a video game. A comparison group of 42 students had no additional training. Both groups took the same questions to evaluate their learning experiences of clinical practice and were evaluated for knowledge, attitudes and experience towards clinical practice before and after the clinical rotations. The WBBVL group reported significantly better learning experience of clinical practice after the clinical rotations than the comparison group (PChris Low Christopher Leo Low (born October 9, 1989) is an American professional baseball infielder and outfielder for the Tampa Bay Rays of Major League Baseball (MLB).
